HITCHCOCK WILL

Senator Hitchcock has accepted the nvitation of Henry Morgenthau to meet Senatore Knox and Lodge in a League of Nations debate in New Fork early next month.

Hitchcock, as chairman of the Forign Relations Committee, has been the stanchest and most effective Senate advocate of the league as it is now framed.

Returning Monday from a rest in the South, Hitchcock plans vigorous ounter attacks on the opponents of the league. He will speak soon in Chicago, but before doing so probably will issue a statement answering categorically all the arguments so far advanced against the league.

Confident of Approval. In spite of the pledging of fiftytwo Senators to vote against the govenant in its present form! those Senators who are backing President Wilson's stand declare that the Senste, in their opinion, will be found approving the covenant.

They declared that when the Senate sees that President Wilson has been able to overcome every real foreign indifference and opposition to the league, and line up the allied and neutral nations for it, opposing Senathrs will be more or less gracefully back down.

There is a disposition however, to regard seriously the apparent delay in Paris in getting to business on the treaty. Administration Senaint out that while many conces are held, nothing real seems be gained by them, or if pregress being made it is not made apparent by anything coming out of Want Negotiations Rashed.

Advocates of the league frankly ant the negotiations concluded and the covenant submitted to the Senate on. They declare that the longer opposition has to work up sentibent the more difficult and prolonged will be the task of ratification.

Complaint is also heard among iministration Senators remaining in Washington that if progress is being made the secrecy with which it is shrouded will have to be explained later. This, they said, would mean a long wrangle in the Senate over open consideration of the treaty and league covenant, and would add strength to President Wilson's oppo-

It is an outgrowth of the National Petroleum War Service Committee, of which A. C. Bedford, chairman of the board of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, was chairman, and which did such notable work in keeping a constant flow of petroleum and all its products to the United States and the allies during the great war. All branches of the oil industry were represented on this committee, which consisted of thirty-five of the leading oil men of the country. This committee worked so harmoniously and to such good purpose that it was felt that it should be made a national organization following the signing of the armistice.
